

THE ELDER SCROLLS/BBFRPG PLAY REPORT #20

Dominion: Black Tower, Turdas 11th of Sun's Height, 3E 433

Date: 030714, 4 hours.

Players:

Brian: Jo'Rak, Khajiit Moonpath Walker

Amanda: ~~Filbyn~~, Wood Elf Scout/sneak

Tina: Riala, Breton Mage

Logan: ~~Yngvar~~, Nord Warrior (former Stormcloak Rebel)

Tony: Talan, Redguard Warrior/leader

George: Cocius Mantedi, Imperial Legionnaire

Reid: Kalarus, Dunmer Illusionist and Enchanter

Heading across the scorched and tortured landscape of Oblivion, the group made it to the Dark Tower in one piece. Minor daedra continued to be drawn to the Oblivion Gate to Nirn. Riala opened the door to the Dark Tower with a Shout. The warriors in the group quickly dispatched several dremora guarding the lower levels and shrine to Mehrunes Dagon. They found some gem stones and minor treasure. Cocius found his belongings from his lost horse! Talan brought his horse into the tower!

In the center of the tower rose a column of fire. The group fought their way up two levels of the tower. They met various forms of dremora at every step. Some dremora fought with spells, some with weapons with fire enchantments.

Role playing took a back seat to number crunching in this game. It remains to be seen if the party truly understands what it is they are here to do. So far, Kalarus has kept them in the dark. Talan continues to try and coax his horse up the ramps leading to the next levels. It is the only surviving horse in Oblivion. Next time, answers or ... oblivion.

